2020 Census Talking Points

- The Census is for everyone living in the U.S., not just citizens. The Census will not ask you if you are a citizen.
- There are only 12 questions on the Census and should only take about 10 minutes fill out.
- Only one person per address needs to respond to the Census. And that person should count everyone at their address on the form.
- You can respond to the Census online or by phone. Look for a postcard in the mail with more instructions!
- Census responses determine funding for health care programs, schools, childcare, college financial aid, food assistance, housing, and public transportation. More people counted means more funding.
- If you're worried about privacy: Don't be. By law, the Census cannot share your information with others.
- The Census counts every single person living in the U.S., even if the people at your address are not related, if they are not U.S. citizens, or if they have only lived at the address during part of the year. They ALL need to be counted.
- You can participate in the Census by visiting 2020census.gov.
